My reflections:
I didn't realise there was no minimum sentencing for child killers. It was interesting to hear from parents whose children have been murdered. I only had read about their stories in the paper.

My ideas to improve current criminal justice system responses:

There needs to be a minimum mandatory sentencing if victim is classed as a child, e.g. 15 years minimum, just because a child victim is so vulnerable and physically they can't defend themselves and they haven't had a chance of life.

Adults have a duty of care towards children in their care.

Other comments/views:

I enjoyed the summit. It would be great if you could have more in Townsville.

Thank you
